NEWSLETTER OF THE WILLUNGA FARMERS MARKET

Issue 23, WINTER 2009

Dear Members,

Welcome to the first e-newsletter edition of the “Forager” – the seasonal newsletter of Willunga Farmers Market. We’re catching up with the times and now will communicate with you all through our wonderful new website and this e-newsletter which will drop into your email box four times/year. For those of you who don’t have email we will still provide some hard copies of the Forager available at the Info Stall on market days.

www.willungafarmersmarket.com

The Forager celebrates the achievements of the market and our stallholders, announces upcoming events and links our market to the wider world.

2009 is shaping up to be one of the market’s best years – winning the Vogue E + T award for outstanding farmers market (see article below) has led to our profile being raised all over Australia with WFM being mentioned in many food/travel/lifestyle magazines and included in radio programs on growers markets and sustainable agriculture. A couple of high-flying market stallholders – Taronga Orchard and Spice Girlz – have even appeared in Jetstar’s inflight magazine! These two businesses are wonderful examples of the way in which farmers markets can act as small business incubators with both of them now in the export business –congratulations!

The AGM is coming up and I particularly wish to thank our hard-working committee for a great year’s teamwork. More details are in this newsletter.

Last but never least, the thanks of all members and especially all the stallholders go to our wonderful management team led so ably and professionally by Graham Boyd our market manager. He’s about to head off for a well-deserved break having got the website up and running and a very busy year so far. Thanks team!

Best wishes
Jude McBain
Chair WFM Inc

Winners in Vogue!

The winners of the 2009 Vogue Entertaining + Travel Produce Awards were announced at a star-studded event held at Justin North's renowned restaurant, Etch in Sydney on May 11th. The Vogue Entertaining + Travel Produce Awards celebrate and uncover the best of Australia's producers and suppliers, in categories including 'from the paddock', 'from the dairy', 'from the earth' and 'from the sea'.

Willunga Farmers Market was voted the "Outstanding Farmers Market" in Australia and Jude McBain, Chair of WFM was thrilled to be able to attend the celebrations and receive the award from Matt Preston on behalf of the growers, producers and 1500 members of WFM.

"The Awards are dedicated to discovering and celebrating the finest food growers and suppliers in the country. Whether you're a three-hat chef, or someone who enjoys cooking at home, these are the producers and products you need to know about," said Trudi Jenkins, editor-in-chief of Vogue Entertaining + Travel.

"The Awards are not just a celebration of Australia's fantastic produce; they acknowledge the people who are committed to quality and consistency in what they grow and make, and those who promote small producers through restaurants, providers and markets," she said.

Matt Preston who has visited WFM many times over the years was particularly impressed by the market's commitment to primary producers and high quality value-added produce. He said that he had watched us grow over the years and with the addition now of Meat St, along with top quality bread and fruit & vegetables "it was a delight for him to shop at the market!"

Take a bow Willunga Farmers Market!!

From the manager

Over the last few months WFM has again been very busy, some of it planned and some completely surprise. The latter being the Vogue Entertaining + Travel Award which came as quite a shock. Of course, everyone is very deserved of this prestigious accolade and all who are part of WFM can feel proud to have made such a wonderful market environment. It was only a few weeks before we had been busy putting together the final technical parts to our new website, so the news gave us a great opportunity to publish some exciting content. Since then we have been able to make the pages very informative with plenty more to come. And so it seems justified that we are also to participate in the 3rd National Farmers' Market conference, being held in Victoria towards the end of August. This two day event will be packed full of relevant topics with guest speakers from all over Australia and some international. Delegates will be sharing valuable experience and learning from those who have been advocating the benefits of local produce in their own communities. One particular aspect which WFM is very keen to be involved in is the much needed set of national standards for accreditation of Farmers' Markets. As many have noticed popularity for markets is increasing (media fashionable almost) and so, with that, comes risk. Risk that the name is abused leaving customers with a false impression and an overall damaging relationship for markets who are considered genuine and true to their origins. WFM would like to think that it is on the right track, but what ever the outcome we will certainly be able to help and ultimately adopt the national standards so you as members can feel confident about your market experience.
